

Experts say that fake news sites are eroding the public's ability to distinguish between fact and fiction. Why might that be a concern in modern American Society?